GLO — Notes Update

thepillarsofwisdom · new activity since the 8 May 2026 snapshot

Window 9 May – 26 July 2026 · 363 original notes · 129 restacks · corpus now 3694 notes

---

AT A GLANCE

363
NEW ORIGINAL NOTES

5.6
NOTES / ACTIVE DAY

23.7
MEAN REACTIONS

+22%
VS PRIOR QUARTER

338
BEST NOTE

Output held steady at roughly five to six notes on each of 65 active days, but engagement rose: mean reactions went from 19.4 (1 Feb – 8 May) to 23.7, median from 14 to 16, and the ceiling from 202 to 338. The lift is concentrated in June and July — May ran at the old baseline before something changed in the mix.

CADENCE AND ENGAGEMENT BY MONTH

MONTH	ORIGINAL NOTES	MEAN REACTIONS
2026-05	105	18.2
2026-06	145	26.0
2026-07	113	26.0

WHAT GLO HAS BEEN WRITING ABOUT

THEME	REPRESENTATIVE NOTES
Cost-of-living / generational economics	$325k is the new $100k · If wages kept pace with growth the average worker

The reliably highest-performing register. Wage stagnation, the $100k-is-now-$325k framing, mortgage double standards, boomer-vs-Gen-Z pessimism, the unemployment-metric revision of 1994. Written as grievance-with-numbers rather than pure invective.	would make $120k · It is now cheaper to build your own house than negotiate with a boomer
Gender and dating antagonism Highest-variance category — produced both the period's biggest hit and much of its filler. Ranges from broad observational comedy to explicit manosphere slur vocabulary (foid, etc.).	The 6'8" golden retriever werewolf note (287) · 'that girl' as Patrick Bateman (150) · fraternity-era retrospectives
Food, health and 'GoySlop' Seed oils, glyphosate ('glycosulphate'), school lunches, fast-food contamination — anchored repeatedly to the Soviet-childhood comparison: my grandparents ate better under Stalin than you do now.	Soviet nutrition posts · glyphosate ppb tables · depopulation-by-food-supply framing
Epstein / ruling-class conspiracy Persistent through the whole window and now used as a litmus test — 'is this person Epstein-aware?' — for evaluating other Substack writers and, in one July note, job candidates.	Feminist silence on the 'unnameable island' · Epstein-awareness as interview question
Anti-conservative-influencer polemic A sustained internal fight rather than a left-facing one. Jordan Peterson, Ben Shapiro, Charlie Kirk, Patrick Bet-David and Nick Fuentes are cast as time-wasting controlled opposition; 'I called the Charlie Kirk psyop immediately' recurs as a credibility claim.	Conservatives exist to waste your time · Ben Shapiro vs Dugin on who actually writes books
Surveillance and the EU New this period. EU Chat Control 1.0 drove a July cluster on message scanning, Flock cameras, digital ID and the sealed-envelope argument against 'nothing to hide'.	Chat Control passage coverage · analogue-surveillance nostalgia · Japan My Number digital ID
Exit / remote income The one consistently constructive thread: figure out remote income, leave the US or the EU, Mexico as the inflation hedge. Recurs roughly monthly and is the closest thing to a call to action.	'You need to figure out remote income' · long-term inflation answer is to move to Mexico
Substack meta-commentary Unusually heavy — ~15 notes about the platform itself: LinkedIn-gated normie Substack vs the edgelord network, engagement costs of stating positions openly, who shares whom.	'Chudstack is a writing competition scored in divorced alcoholic dads' · edgelord-network mechanics
Occult / esoteric reading A distinct low-engagement but steady lane — 'wizard books', Evola, Dugin, Kojève, Gita quotations, Anna's Archive plus Claude translation of obscure religious texts, astral-plane material.	Wizard-library posts · Kojève on the Bourgeois · psychic-attack grounding advice

TOP 15 NOTES BY REACTIONS

	NOTE	REACT	RESTACK	REPLY
1	goycattle final boss 2026-07-12	338	19	14
2	We have an epidemic of women who cannot find a 6'8" multi millionaire golden retriever werewolf who respects her independence but will also lead her and give her space but also romance her but only when she wants, will not judge her past and also be religious but not serious. 2026-06-16	287	16	15
3	US Aid got defunded and now no one listens to rap anymore. 2026-06-28	209	18	11
4	I think part of the reason the Boomers don't understand the Gen Z and Millennial demoralization on society and the economy, is that generally, Boomers believe you suffer now, and it gets better later. Gen Z and Millennials believe they are suffering now, and it won't get better later. Gen Z and Mi 2026-07-22	150	13	18
5	Literally any upper middle class tiktok self-identified 'that girl' in a pastel workout set with a thirteen step skincare routine and a green juice is a million times closer to being patrick bateman irl than any self-identified sigma film bro. 2026-06-22	150	7	10
6	It is now cheaper to just build your own damn house than negotiate with a baby boomer 2026-06-30	111	5	7
7	There are a long series of events that got mind wiped by leftoids because they are not convenient to the narrative. This will for sure be one of them. 2026-06-19	98	9	1
8	The JP Morgan Executive you wanted vs the one you got 2026-06-26	96	4	11
9	Homeschooling is legal in Brazil but a judge has just sentenced two parents to 50 days in prison for "intellectual neglect" because their 11- and 15-year-old daughters, accomplished pianists and polyglots, received no classes on gender theory, sex education, tolerance, diversity and Afro-Brazilian c	83	4	8

	2026-07-10
10	Wow guys its almost as if the police don't serve the people but the billionaire rulling class. And the billionaire ruling class needs masses of migrants to prop up a failing economy ans to extract rents. The lower class white women, are just bait to get as many rent payers to come as possible. 2026-06-18	83	10	4
11	We Work Ourselves to Death Just to Buy Back the life our ancestors had by default. I've been thinking about how insane this all is. We grind 40-60 hours a week, stress over money, structure our whole lives around income streams-just to maybe get to a place where we can afford to do the kinds of thi 2026-07-07	79	6	6
12	Just want to point out that all the MeToo feminists are mysteriously silent on the UK scandal and the unnameable island. All that hysteria in the 2010's was just resentment against their husbands, brothers and sons. The don't care that women are being raped. Which is why they're not talking about 2026-06-19	78	13	7
13	Bill Clinton changed the unemployment metric in 1994 so it only measures people who looked for a job in recent weeks, rather than the total number of adults out of work. So the number is always like 4% even when a third of adults don't have a job. By asking who looked for work in 28 days, you are o 2026-06-25	76	9	5
14	The reason tower PCs are big isn't because they're outdated. The reason tower PCs are so bulky is because they're designed to be user serviceable. The case has lots of open space so your big, meaty hands can easily access all of the components, and everything is secured with friction-fit tabs and st 2026-07-17	74	7	3
15	The biggest epidemic is dudes with no real identity. If running gets cool they become runners. if tattoos get cool they cover themselves in tattoos. if being sober trends they become born again monks, mullet, coffee snob, golfer, carnivore, cowboy, whatever the algorithm tells them. Their whole pe 2026-07-22	72	3	4

MOST-RESTACKED ACCOUNTS

ACCOUNT	RESTACKS
Dr. Wojak, M.D.	12
Ancient Problemz	11
WILL TELL	6
Anthony	5
Leo M.J. Aurini	5
Patient Zero	5
Centaur Write Satyr, PhD	4
NeonPatriarch	3
the long warred	3
Tony	3

READING OF THE PERIOD

The economics register is what actually scales. The notes that broke 100 are overwhelmingly the ones that read as material grievance with a number attached — wage stagnation, the mortgage double standard, the 1994 unemployment-metric change, boomer-vs-Gen-Z time horizons. These travel outside the follower base because a reader does not have to share the surrounding worldview to agree with them. The explicitly ideological notes, by contrast, cluster tightly in the 5–25 range: they are read by the same forty accounts every time.

GLO knows this and says so out loud. An unusual share of the period (~15 notes) is meta-commentary on Substack itself, including a direct statement of the tradeoff: stating an ideological position openly scares off the "edgy suburban dads" and roughly halves engagement. So the account is being run with visible awareness that its highest-reach material and its actual convictions are not the same thing, and it keeps choosing both.

The main opponent this period was the mainstream right, not the left. Peterson, Shapiro, Kirk, Bet-David and Fuentes take more direct fire than any liberal target, framed as controlled opposition that exists to absorb and waste attention. Repeated "I called the Charlie Kirk psyop immediately" claims are used as a credibility ledger against them.

Genuinely new since May: the EU surveillance cluster (Chat Control 1.0, Flock cameras, digital ID) with its sealed-envelope argument, an AI thread that is skeptical-instrumental rather than doom-laden (Kissinger/Schmidt on perception management, vibe-coding dismissal) while GLO openly uses Claude to translate obscure texts, and a small but persistent occult-reading lane. The exit thesis — remote income, leave, Mexico as the inflation hedge — is the one recurring piece of advice rather than diagnosis.

Network: restacking is concentrated and reciprocal, led by Dr. Wojak M.D. (12) and Ancient Problemz (11), with Ancient Problemz also the most frequent @-mention and a recurring character in first-person anecdotes.